

AEA Distinguished Economic Education Award

2023 Award Recipient

Mark Maier Glendale Community College

Professor Maier retired from Glendale Community College as Professor of Economics in June 2023. He was the principal investigator or co-principal investigator for five National Science Foundation (NSF) economic education grants totaling more than $1.26 million, including a project developing the widely-recognized Starting Point: Teaching and Learning Economics online pedagogic portal. He has also led or co-led NSF-funded projects specifically supporting community college economics instructors, with the goals of better integrating these instructors into the AEA's economic education community, improving overall community college economics instruction, and building community among two-year college economics instructors.

About the Award

The annual AEA Distinguished Economic Education Award acknowledges sustained and impactful contributions to economic education including teaching, the development of curriculum and pedagogy, scholarship of teaching and learning (SoTL), mentoring, and service.

The award is conferred at the Committee on Economic Education's Friends of Economic Education Reception, which is held at the ASSA Annual Meeting.
